Well..... here's an author that dawdles, drawing all sorts of things.

There really are all kinds of crazed overtime at the end of the year. Even though I rush doing drafts all the way till one in the morning after returning home from work, because the precision required is relatively high, I haven't been able to finish drawing no matter what I did these past two weeks. So that's why I couldn't update on time.....

I really can't apologize enough to those of you waiting for updates QWQ

I'll use the holidays to assemble more drafts so as to avoid this kind of situation ever happening again.....

I'm super excited to have received fanart from Han Wu! Thank you, great Wu
